

Each unit's functionality is tested and judged with a pass/fail criteria during production. Units meeting the criteria continue through production and others are returned for diagnostics or disposal.